

A professional learning program for informal science educators

Reflecting on Practice™ Coaching Workshop

Are you interested in establishing a learning community amongst your colleagues that enhances teaching practices and fosters the growth and development of people and their ideas?

Join us for Reflecting on Practice, a modular professional learning program for informal educators. The workshop introduces educators to the latest research on learning in neuroscience, and practically shares how this knowledge can contribute to strengthen teaching practices.

Educators who participate receive a curriculum binder and ongoing support to implement the program at their home institution.

Reflections from past participants:

"I was able to achieve a greater understanding of what is possible and how to design activities to truly make an impact."

"I surprised myself with how much I learned between each session about how my activities could change."

Build your team members' capacity in informal science education and help elevate informal science activities at your institution.

Reflecting on Practice™ is a modular curriculum that engages educators in discussions about, reflections on, and applications of research and theory on learning and teaching science.

Educators develop a shared knowledge base and refine their teaching practices through greater understanding of, and reflections on, their own beliefs, goals, and actions.

Optional NAI or AZA certifications for you and your staff / volunteers

The Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA) and the National Association for Interpretation (NAI) are partners of Reflecting on Practice. By participating in a Coaching Workshop you can earn credit towards your NAI Certified Interpreter's Guide certification or AZA's Professional Development Certificate in Education and Interpretation. Once you have done the coaching workshop, you can facilitate RoP at your site and any educators there can use those hours towards their own certificates.
